READ EDITORIAL IN HOSPITAL BED.

He said he did not drink beer or whiskey except under the direction of a doctor, but asserted that he sometimes drank light wines. "I was very indignant," said the colonel, "when the editorial was shown me." The former President, mounted the bed by a stanchion, and read the editorial, which was signed by Newett's counsel, declined to make his statement until after the testimony was taken.

RICH BOY AND WIDOW'S SON, CHUMS AT SCHOOL CONFESS TO BURGLARY

During the excitement, stimulated by the recent finding of "diamond" jewelry, was responsible for a series of burglaries committed by Karl S. Sanborn, son of a wealthy St. Louis family and pupil at the conservative Allen School, for boys at West Newton, according to statements today from the school and in Sanborn's own story to the press.

Young Allen and John W. Woodhouse, his roommate, son of a poor widow of Huntington, Ore., were arrested in New York District Court today, following their arrest by Patrolmen Housatonic and William L. Tompkins, in a burglary at the William Street West Newton store.

Both held for Grand Jury. Both pleasant going to court, the boys were charged with breaking and entering and larceny. Sanborn was released on $500 bail and was taken to the trial court on each count for the Grand Jury.

Member was charged with the use of force in two counts, pleaded guilty and was held in $1000 for the Grand Jury. Sanborn was arrested by the patrolmen, saying Meacham had been with him in only one break and that he had been inside the store.

While the last break was being held in the store, the boys were taken to the store. "If it's correct, it's at Meacham's. If it's at Meacham's, it's correct."

THE POOR BOY AND THE RICH BOY BANDITS

THE POOR BOY AND THE RICH BOY BANDITS

Sanborn's Story. "I came from Middletown last Sunday, but for devilry, another boy and I broke into a general store and got some party and other stuff."

"When I came back to school after the burglary, I didn't say a word. I was in a great deal of trouble, but I didn't say a word."

"I did those two breaks alone. Jack Meacham was not with me. Last Sunday night, after 'break' out, I took a taxi to Meacham's. I knew I wanted money. I told him I thought I knew how to make some money. Then I explained the situation to him. But, when I told him I did it alone, he finally consented to go."

"I gave him a loaded revolver. I had broken it. I had made out of black cloth and which I had worn before. We say about all one and talked it over."

Caught by Officer. "At 11 o'clock we stole out of school, down Washington street and to the store. We found a leader and put it in. I used a revolver this time, instead of my knife, to open the window."

"The first time we had a considerable stake together when Officer Housatonic came in and captured the leader at the point of his revolver, interrupted us."

"You fellows are lucky you are not in a hospital as a normal matter," Meacham was heard to say. "I was heard to say."

Sanborn was asked why he did it all this. "For the adventure of it," he said. "There was also some money in it. I could have made some money as a burglar."

Inspector Fletcher: "You haven't said the whole story. You haven't said that you had a loaded revolver. You haven't said that you had a loaded revolver. You haven't said that you had a loaded revolver."

Sanborn: "I didn't have a loaded revolver. I didn't have a loaded revolver. I didn't have a loaded revolver."

It was learned from the Allen School for Boys that Karl S. Sanborn had been a member of a "diamond" club, a group of boys who had been studying in his room. Lacking the healthy fun of athletics, he had turned to "tricky" reading.

Meacham Popular Athlete. While Sanborn shunned school athletics, Meacham was in them as much as possible. He waited on table and did other work to pay his way. He earned his school money on the basketball team last year and was popular with the other boys, nearly all of whom are from rich families.

In the room shared by Sanborn and Meacham the police found a camera, a revolver, knives, cartridges, knapsack, film and other property which, the police say, was stolen.

The arrest of the boys, the descent of the police on their room and the discovery of these goods returned to give the Allen School for Boys one of the worst shocks that "prep" institutions has ever known.

Liggett Sanguine of Business Outlook Throughout Nation

Before sailing for Europe, where he goes to attend a meeting of British shareholders in his company, Louis K. Liggett, president of the United Drug Company and the Louis K. Liggett Company, expresses very optimistic views as to the business outlook, notwithstanding the uncertainty caused by tariff legislation at Washington.

Mr. Liggett's impressions were heightened by his observations on a long trip through the Western United States, from which he had just returned. Asked for his views as to business conditions at present, he said:

"I have just returned from a trip through the Western States, where I found the people busy and sanguine as to the outlook. Everywhere I went I found how business was here in New England, and I always replied, 'Bull'."

"My own business outlook is very sanguine. Last month, and as long as we can get order by going after them, we are all these orders at a profit, we are not going to worry over tariff chances for a while."

"HOPES" PROVE FAMOUS
COAST ROUTS

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

It is said that one Timothy Rorvett is going to attempt to search for a certain lost tribe, after seeing in action the championly capabilities, "Gambler" Smith and John Williams—two of the best of the best—of the coast of the East. The writer feels that Rorvett or some one else should be commended to hunt for descendants of the First of Massachusetts.

There is no nothing in the fact that the big fellows are to do so but to commend the effort of "Gambler" in any department of a game. One does not have to go far as to institute comparisons between present-day championship athletes and the men who were thought to be in line for the title in former times. Take such names as "Kid" Melroy and Joe Choynski, legends who were once crowned with the championship belt. How long would it take for them to go as far as to institute comparisons between present-day championship athletes and the men who were thought to be in line for the title in former times. Take such names as "Kid" Melroy and Joe Choynski, legends who were once crowned with the championship belt.

College Men Ready for Games
Dartmouth Teams Dangerous

By THOMAS J. HALPIN.

Quarter-Mile Champion of United States and Canada.

The annual intercollegiate track and field championships that will be held next Friday and Saturday in the Harvard Stadium will be a stirring climax to one of the most brilliant seasons in college athletics. Judging from the times and distances credited to the different athletes in college competition this spring an idea can be had of the excellent performance that will be expected of the men.

With so many stars entered in Saturday's games there is no doubt that athletic history will be made in the Harvard Stadium. The cream of college track and field stars in the East and West will strive for the honor of winning the title of intercollegiate champion.

Dartmouth Team Dangerous.

As a result of the New England intercollegiate meet last Saturday Dartmouth comes up as a strong contender for the premier honors. It is freely admitted that a small team will win this year's meet, but the athletes with their great star will split up the games.

DOYLE and Burns got into two "cheating" matters. In the third round over day balls that were tossed into the foul line in right field, Doyle and Burns went after both of them. The first time it was Walling that poked a Texas League ball in that direction. It was Burns' ball by rights, but Doyle tried it and didn't get it. Then the two players jumped each other until the umpire came up. After scoring two runs and putting a 4-3 almost identical situation, Doyle and Burns went after it. The New York captain caught the ball after leaving over Burns' shoulders, but it was Burns' ball at that, and the two players again leaped each other and for the near end.

Red Sox Tell How to Beat Sluggers

MANAGER STAIL and the Red Sox say there is but one way to dispose of such dangerous batters as Ty Cobb and Sam Rice. It is to "walk" them. Stail Crawford of the Tigers bats before Cobb and is a comparatively easy runner, the world's champion believe that by walking him and then passing Cobb the latter would be unable to steal bases or hit safely. The same scheme applied to Turner, the Cleveland batting order would be equally successful. The champions outlined this strategy in New York without smiling.

JAMES seemed to lose heart over Murray pot the ball over the infield fence. For the Cubs got to him good and proper after that only one run was in when Murray poked out over the fence. The last disastrous fourth inning James had had little experience in the big leagues. Some of the other men sometimes got into a little of it. Murray and Sullivan were talking to him when he was over, and he knew that James would learn not to get into a situation one day, and the place where there is opportunity to work the corners and waste a lot of time.

STOCK MARKET AND FINANCIAL NEWS

Stocks were dull this morning and prices were irregular. The demand was very limited and traders are still waiting for an uplifting development. Locally Boston Elevated advanced more than a point. Coppers were inactive as a class. The New York market failed to recover during the first half of the forenoon. Ticonderoga, Steel, Southern Pacific, Seaboard and Associated trading a little around.

London prices for American were not helpful on this side. There was a weak there in Canadian Pacific. That market was hesitant in early trading and grew weaker towards the close. The price movement was narrow and business sluggish.

Early Liquidation in New York.

Many traders were disappointed over the failure of the United States Supreme court to decide the Minnesota rate case, and the result was liquidation of some speculative holdings when the New York market opened. In early trading most of the important issues declined fractionally. A few were fairly strong, which gave the list an irregular appearance. Within a few minutes, however, the support of the market was exhausted and a little demand was sufficient to cause a rally.

Canadian Pacific opened at 33 1/2, a loss of 1/2, but made a partial recovery.

Steel common opened with a loss of 1/2, slightly on published reports of a price decline in Europe. Later the loss was made up and the issue closed a gain.

Steel stock traded fractionally in spite of the slight decline in common. Associated, after opening unimproved, declined fractionally.

Other issues, which sold off were Louisville & Nashville, St. Louis Pacific, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, California Petroleum, Great Northern preferred, 3/4, and Erie. Reading should be, but later recovered and secured a net gain of 1/2.

There was renewed pressure against the bonds and San Francisco. The Curo was dull.

Free Port Plan Unpopular.

The proposition to make New York a free port seems unpopular. Many seafaring men think it would work to the advantage of foreigners and not help American.

William H. Douglas, a member of the foreign trade committee of the Merchants' Association of New York, said it seems to me that it would be offering greater advantages to European exporters, who could store their merchandise with only small expenditure for the insurance, storage and interest on their money, while they were negotiating in the export field now sold by American manufacturers.

In New York city we seem to be getting away from trade protection, and just now it seems to be the difficulty to do everything to the advantage of other countries.

Steel Trade is Declining.

It is reported that orders for steel products are light and it is expected that the United States Steel Corporation will report a heavy decrease in output for the month of May. Steel manufacturers are closely watching the business situation in Germany where a large decrease in production is forecasted for this summer. With German steel mills shut of orders they would be expected to be a formidable force in the steel market in this country under the understanding tariff.

American steel industry has hoped that business would continue to expand in Germany that manufacturers there would have no more to say in raising for some market needs they would not offer competition in the United States.

Asking Advice of Bankers.

The Senate Banking and Currency Committee are sending thirty-two questions to bankers and about experts to obtain advice and opinions which will be framing a new currency bill. When considering the chief questions are:

What are the essential defects of our banking system?

Should money be nationalized, and if so, how?

Should it be in the hands of individual banks or of a central bank?

Should it be in the hands of a central bank or of a central bank?

President Wilson told Senators Chamberlain and Jones that as well as the proposed legislation to have the government build railroads in Alaska.

New York City is contemplating the sale of not more than $100,000,000 notes in the near future as a makeshift until the market for bonds improves.

St. Louis & Northwestern Railroad has sold $100,000,000 of notes without success.

The New York City market opened at 124.00, a loss of 1/2, but later recovered and secured a net gain of 1/2.

Interesting and Enlightening
Attack on Undermyer

He Is the Man Who Made Organized Money Sit Up and Answer Questions

Copyright, 1913, by Star Company

Samuel Undermyer did useful work in persuading the big men of money to tell the PEOPLE of the United States something about the management and control of the MONEY of the United States.

It was a good thing for the people to know that a dozen men controlled most of the big banks, and through them the little banks.

And it was enlightening to discover that big money managers couldn't remember within "a few hundred millions" the amounts they turned over.

Undermyer is the first man in the United States who has succeeded in letting the people know what happens to the money of the country—which is the industrial and commercial life blood of a nation.

Among other public services rendered by Undermyer is the identification of a very simple way of the newspapers, that organized money controls.

Make out a list of the editors who have been attacking Undermyer ever since he compelled the big money men to answer important questions and you have a list of the editors and newspapers that are controlled by organized capital, and not by their readers' interest.

The investigation and understanding of the organized power and concentrated action of money in this country is as important as any enterprise of the century. The work has only been begun. Undermyer deserves the credit for making the beginning of the investigation EFFECTIVE.

It is to be hoped that the attacks upon him by a highly organized capitalistic press bureau will not discourage him in future work.

There could be no greater menace to the nation's material welfare than the concentration of money, AND THE ABSOLUTE CONTROL OF CREDIT IN THE HANDS OF A FEW MEN.

Money is POWER. If a nation—that is to say, the whole people—controls the nation's money, power is national, and prosperity is national. If a few individuals control the country's money and extend credit only to a few favorites, then power is individual and prosperity will be only individual.

It is a satisfaction to those who have viewed with apprehension the control of the ablest lawyers by organized capital to find such a man as Undermyer—at least as able as any man in the country—retained by the United States Government, and making a courageous and intelligent fight for the Government, regardless of the hatred of powerful men whom lawyers usually struggle to please—for big fees to come.

It is amusing to see corporation newspapers that how humbly before every corporation legal jackal attacking Undermyer because he has seen fit to crown his career by a conspicuous service to all the citizens of the nation in which his success has been built up.

Undermyer is able to fight for himself, but in view of the attacks and false statements of which he has been the victim, by the newspapers that organized money controls, it is just as well to tell what kind of a man Undermyer is.

He has been what is called a "corporation lawyer." And he probably will remain a corporation lawyer. Only corporations can pay the biggest lawyers the fees that they want.

But Undermyer never organized or represented a corporation declared unlawful, or attacked by the courts.

And long before he became the lawyer of the Government in investigating individual control of national finances, Undermyer was taking the side of honest investors against individual exploiters.

It was Undermyer who, backed by the New York American and Evening Journal, made the fight against the United States shipbuilding swindle. In that case he revealed the dishonest scheming which involved many of the biggest men in Wall Street, and which included, among other things, the revelation that all the stock was to be in a voting trust held by John W. Gates, and the stock owned by one individual, for which he had not paid a dollar, was to be sold ahead of all other stocks.

Undermyer represented the people's interest and honest investors in the exposure of the Montreal and Boston Mining swindle, in which hundreds of thousands of shares were sold to the public by swindling "washed sales" and in that instance Undermyer exposed the complicity of one of the vice-presidents of the National City Bank, who was driven from the bank as a result of the exposure.

Undermyer was a leader in the fight for the policyholders of big insurance companies against dishonest management. In this fight, which improved conditions for all policyholders throughout the country, Undermyer spent nearly a quarter of a million dollars of his own money.

Undermyer fought for the minority stockholders of the Rutland road against the New Haven road, and for the minority stockholders of the St. Joseph and Grand Island road, for the protection of those stockholders.

We mention these incidents in Undermyer's career for the benefit of the young lawyers of today who will be "the great lawyers" of tomorrow.

It is a good thing to know that it is possible, as Undermyer has proved, to be one of the ablest and most successful lawyers at the bar, and at the same time to sympathize with and faithfully represent the public interest, as the Government's legal fighter.

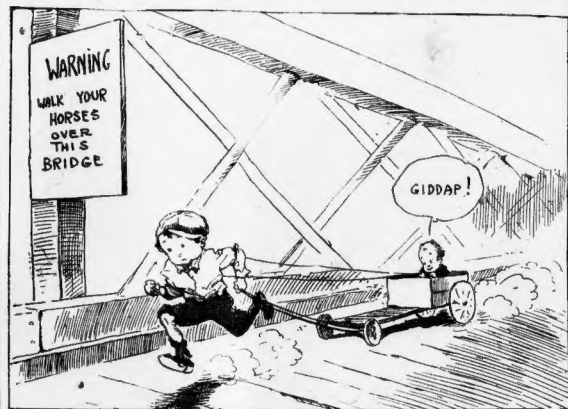

It is also a pleasure to give to the truths concerning Undermyer a circulation very much greater than that commanded by corporation newspapers that lie about Undermyer, in order to carry favor with the arrogant risk whose illegal act he has exposed.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

A FINE DECLARATION OF THE AMERICAN.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir:—I made my heart rejoice to read the article written by Mr. H. C. in the Washington Post, and published in the AMERICAN. It is most inspiring, and is the finest declaration of true Americanism uttered in many a day.

True American that he is, in every breath and word of his body, he cannot subscribe to the Woodrow Wilson-Columbo British free-trade heresies, and I think Almighty God that he has raised up Mr. Hearst to champion the cause of every American worker, and to repel the onslaught of British and American free-traders, and that he will live and graduate that the writer, along with tens of thousands of his like countrymen, would vote for him for the Presidency if ever afforded an opportunity to do so.

LUTHER G. SHERMAN.
Late Army of the Potomac.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir:—Did the "Boston Tea Party" ask of England when, how and where they should proceed, in disposing of us as subjects? I am sure that they should not.

I wish to express my sincere and honest appreciation and respect for the patriotic and commendable stand which the AMERICAN has taken on the Coliform land question, and also the belief that the AMERICAN voices the sentiments of the great majority of the people of the United States.

FROM A "RED-BLOODED YANKEE," Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir:—I am only one of the common people and I guess that what I have to say will not make much noise. But, being a patriotic American, I have been a constant reader of the AMERICAN simply because it is the most patriotic paper we have today, and one that always was an advocate of a later day.

A "RED-BLOODED YANKEE," Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir:—With the protests of Japan over the Anti-Asian Bill, practically amounting to an ultimatum, do the Congress and Senators who voted the "Pork Barrel" legislation and not one who have betrayed the vital interests of our country?

My brother-in-law, returned from a trip to Japan, says it is no longer a word in Japan the war with the United States is inevitable.

Japan should be abandoned; that a Federal law should be passed excluding from the United States soil, as well as from all other lands owned by the United States, all Asiatic laborers of whatever birth, nationality or origin.

Keep up the fight, and if we must fight Japan or any other country in order to preserve our land from becoming a lazaretto, well, then, let us fight. Perhaps you might take up the subject of proper defence. All else depends on this.

Source of Power Which Enables It to Hurl Projectiles a Hundred Thousand Miles Per Second Explained.

"I HAVE often wanted to ask you to tell us something about radium in a special article. I mean tell us in such manner as lay mind could stand. No encyclopedia does. What, for example, is the meaning of its power; whence derived? What is radio-activity? What are these emanations so much dwelt on and how do they act? Please tell me, are these emanations a disintegrating of the countless particles comprising a particle of radium? If so, how are they especially powerful in any particular instance? If so, is it because the compression in the particle is so great, so impendable, that the molecules beginning to escape—"emanating," as I imagine—can continue to escape or to emanate for years and years and years with no sensible diminution of the particle? Won't you kindly resolve the whole theory and make it plain as possible? How is it powerful for anything in particular? Would a particle of gold or some other metal give off emanations, if emanations be what I imagine namely, disintegration?" J. M. W.

By GARRETT P. SEVIER

THE answer to these questions must be almost as compressed as the inquirer supposes a particle of radium to be.

Radio-activity is a recently discovered property of the atoms of matter which causes them to send off continuously, and of their own accord, streams of radiation, some of which consist of almost infinitely small particles (very much smaller than average atoms themselves), while others are, apparently, vibrations in the ether in which respects they resemble waves of light and of electricity. One result of radio-activity is that the atoms of matter affected by it gradually disintegrate or disappear.

Only a few substances are known to be radio-active, but it has been conjectured that all substances may possess this property in a degree at present imperceptible to us, and thus the universe may be slowly dissolving.

Known Radio-Active Bodies

The known radio-active bodies are the substances called "uranium" and "thorium," together with certain elements derived from them, the most famous of which is "radium." All of these substances are remarkable for their great atomic weight; in fact, they are the densest, or heaviest, in existence—heavier than lead, gold or platinum.

Three kinds of rays are given off by these substances. Those called "Alpha" rays consist of particles of about the mass of an ordinary atom of hydrogen (the lightest known atom), and moving with a velocity of about 20,000 miles per second. Those called "Beta" rays also consist of particles, but much smaller than the others, and moving with velocities of more than 100,000 miles per second. The third kind are called "Gamma" rays, and these appear to be not streams or particles, but vibrations, resembling the X-rays, and propagated through the ether in the same manner as light.

Alpha rays penetrate solid matter in varying degrees. The Alpha rays have the least penetration, being stopped by a single sheet of paper. The Beta rays have about a hundred times more power of penetration, while the GAMMA RAYS ARE SO PIERCING THAT THEY HAVE BEEN SENT THROUGH A FOOT OF SOLID IRON!

In consequence of the disintegrating effect of radio-activity, a bit of radium, left to itself, gradually disappears, but, so mysterious are the particles shot off, and so great is the proportion of them that simply hang together in the atom without immediately escaping, that it has been estimated that about 2,500 years are required for the complete breaking up of an atom of radium. Yet the energy set free by the slow process is so great that a single gram of radium compound emits, in one hour, sufficient heat to raise its own weight of water from the freezing to the boiling point! If we could gather up all the supplies of radium, instead of having to be content with the one or two grams that exist in all the laboratories put together, we might look with perfect indifference upon the rapid exhaustion of the coal fields.

Now, whence comes this mysterious energy? It has been found that the heat is probably derived from the internal bombardment of the radium atom itself by the Alpha particles! The only answer possible, at present, is that there is a gigantic store of energy locked up, in some unknown way, in the atoms, and held in suspense there until the automatic disintegration of the atoms sets it free to act in other ways. It then sends the particles flying, and their collisions produce heat. As far as potential energy is concerned the mightiest explosive ever invented by man is pitifully weak compared with the explosive force contained in everything about us! The problem of the origin of the inter-atomic energy involves the whole question of the nature of matter.

Energy Implies Motion

Suppose we look at it in this way. Matter is energy in a particular form, but energy implies motion, or the ability to produce motion. To create an atom of matter energy must be locked up. Apparently it disappears in the atom. As long as the atom exists, as such, the imprisoned energy is imperceptible to us. Some think that an atom resembles a minute solar system, in which infinitesimal particles are in swift revolution around the centre of the atom as the planets are in revolution around the sun.

Something in the case of radioactive substances, interfere with the regular motions of the particles, or electrons, and the atom goes to pieces, or is transformed into a new atom of a different kind, and a great amount of energy is released. More slowly, the same process may affect all the matter in the universe, and in the course of time, every world now in existence may dissolve, but the energy locked up in these worlds reappears in the formation of new ones.

The "emanation" given off by radium appears to be something different from any of the three kinds of rays that have been mentioned. Some regard it as being a kind of gas. It has the power of imparting the property of radio-activity to any other substance that happens to be near a bit of radium, as for instance the hands and clothes of the experimenters. But this imparted radio-activity does not last long. One of the most wonderful things about the emanation is that it has been found to change, of its own accord, into helium, an element entirely different from radium. If nature were giving us a hint that the dream of the ancient alchemists that base metal might change into gold, was not without foundation.

Emanation Unperceivable

The tendency of all things to give off emanations, of one kind or another, is not a new discovery. There is probably nothing that does not thus affect its surroundings, in ways unguessed. Living beings radiate emanations upon everything around them. THE DOG FOLLOWS HIS MASTER THROUGH ALL THE INTRICACIES OF A CROWD ON ACCOUNT OF SOME EMANATION NOT PERCEIVABLE BY HUMAN SENSES.

Dr. Le Bon has suggested that the power of some animals to see in the dark is due to the existence of emanations. Thus the cat sees us in the darkest night by virtue of some halo produced around our bodies by vital action, and photographs made in the dark are similarly explained. What was once known as "odoric force," producing an alleged luminous nimbus around a human being, would, by this hypothesis, be accounted for as the result of an emanation. When this subject was under investigation many years ago it was remarked that relatively few persons exhibit the phenomenon in "visible form." They are like gold, which shows no perceptible radio-activity, although the property may exist in it, while those who do exhibit it, exhibit the phenomenon in "visible form."
